Rapid Bidding Up of a Number of Industrial Specialties Checks Heavy Profit-Taking.

EASTMAN KODAK
SELLS ABOVE 200

More Than Dozen Prominent Issues Move Into New High Ground—U. S. Steel Lower at Close

By the Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, July 6.—Rapid bidding up of a number of industrial specialties checked a heavy week-end selling movement in today's two-hour session of the stock market. Losses were finished before the close, and more than a dozen prominent issues were sent once more into new high ground.

Aside from a few more favorable June sales reports from chain store systems, there was practically nothing in the day's news to influence the market. The early decline appeared to have been a continuation of the profit taking which cropped out in several sections of the list yesterday, which was swelled by the announcement last night of an increase of $227,000,000 in Federal Reserve banks' loans.

While the jump in brokers' loans was not unexpected, its size, nearly approximating the record weekly increase reported for the last week of 1928, took traders' breaths away for a moment, and had a chilling effect upon speculative sentiment. The abrupt upturn, however, was attributed largely to special conditions over the turn of the half year, and another case in bankers' acceptance rates tended to bear out forecasts of better credit conditions for the next few weeks at least.

Food Shares Rally.
Food shares were prominent in the rally, influenced by merger rumors and earnings estimates. Corn Products, Continental Baking and Coca Cola rose about 3 to 5 points to record prices. Eastman Kodak was a buoyant feature of the session, soaring 11½ points to a record price of 205½.

Cash Thrashing was rushed up 2½ points to a peak at 350, and closed at 245. International Telephone, Allied Chemical, Ludlum Steel, Simmons, Underwood Elliott and Peoples Gas were among other issues rising to record prices. American Telephone, which has been under moderate pressure in recent sessions, rose more than 3 points. International Business Machines, Western Union, Liquid Carbonic, Atchafalaya, Lackawanna, International Harvester and Briggs rose 3 to 6 points.

A number of issues which were buoyant yesterday lost much of their gains in profit taking. Auburn Auto sold down 10 points and closed 5 lower. Commercial Solvents lost nearly 9 points. Du Pont dropped 4 points. Allis Chalmers, Johns Manville and National Biscuit 3, and such other shares as U. S. Steel and New York Central lost a point and more.

Foreign exchanges were quiet and practically unchanged. Sterling cables holding at $4.84½. The Japanese yen rallied 1-10 of a cent further.

How Money Market Was Aided.
Member banks were forced to increase their rediscounts heavily at the Federal Reserve in order to aid the money market over the weekend settlement period. This is shown clearly in the condition statements of both the New York bank and the system as a whole. The banks did not move to ease money through the bill market or by purchase of Government securities. On the contrary both statements show holdings of such collateral considerably reduced from a week ago. The other hand, rediscounts at the local bank rose $108,000,000 during the period, and for the system were up by approximately the same amount.

Interest in C. P. Inc., on a large scale, is reported as forecasting early developments of considerable importance in its affairs. This company, an American corporation, already has close contact with the French company, having exclusive "rights" to its formula for use in the United States. Earnings for the first quarter this year increased 28 per cent over the corresponding period of 1928, amounting to 89 cents a share against 66 cents a share last year.

GERMAN PAPER CONDEMNS
YOUNG PLAN AS SLAVERY

Der Tag Issues Special Supplement to Carry Article of Economist.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, July 6.—With an editorial introduction declaring "the Young plan must not become a reality," Der Tag, National newspaper, today issued a special four-page supplement comprising a detailed condemnation of the Young plan by an economist named Dr. Paul Lang.

Headlines on the article described the Young plan as "no release from the Dawes plan, but slavery for generations."

The editorial asserts that "all circles, young and old, just resort to any means to prevent the insanity of fatally overburdening our nation and the intention of certain elements to pledge the German word for an agreement which cannot be fulfilled."

Dr. Lang's article concludes with a statement that "the reversal of the Paris plan means opening the way to freedom."

ROCKEFELLER 90 YEARS OLD
Will Observe Birthday Anniversary

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, July 6.—Still hale and hearty, John D. Rockefeller will celebrate his ninetieth birthday at his Rockledge Hills estate at Tarrytown, N. Y., Monday, when he will play eight holes of golf.

Rockefeller passed through his health "crisis" some 20 years ago, when he suffered considerably from stomach trouble. But, with dieting, golf, medical care and the right amount of relaxation, he probably is in as good physical condition today as he was at 70. For years his routine of life has varied little. He arises about 7 a. m., has a leisurely breakfast, rests and then plays golf. Then follows a shower, another rest, luncheon and a motor ride. He has dinner about 6 p. m., reads and then retires about 9 or 10 p. m.

Two Earthquakes Recorded.

The other was at 4:53 a. m., and 2600 miles away.

U. S. TARIFF "GOES TOO FAR"

Swedish Newspaper Protests Against Higher Duties.
STOCKHOLM, July 6.—The opinion that the proposed American high tariff is "going too far" has been voiced by the Svenska Dagbladet, a Swedish newspaper. Under headlines of "Tariff Threats from the West," the paper deprecates the present tendency to increase duties, saying that the United States now wants to make any importation from Europe impossible.

The pending schedule, said the paper, would hit only a minor part of Sweden's trade with America. The pending schedule, said the paper, would hit only a minor part of Sweden's trade with America, as wood pulp and paper would be left on the free list. "But in the line of iron, steel, matches, hides, granite and glassware, Sweden is hopeful that there will be no increase in duty," said the newspaper. The paper further pointed out that American products were not heavily taxed in Sweden.

NEW ORLEANS CAR
COMPANY TRYING TO SETTLE STRIKE

Disorders Subside While Employers and Unionists Seek Possible Basis of Negotiations.

FIVE STREET CARS
BURNED LAST NIGHT

Trainload of Men Brought In by Company Held Outside City to Avoid Threatened Violence.

By the Associated Press.
NEW ORLEANS, July 6.—After two nights and a day of disorder, striking street carmen and their sympathizers rested today while representatives of the company and union sought to find a common ground for negotiation.

The disorders yesterday continued into the night, resulting in the burning of five street cars, the throwing of dynamite into the Polard barn and the setting fire to the Chalabre avenue street car bridge.

Strike sympathizers were said to have been prepared to attack imported carmen but the special train which brought the non-union men was shunted about on sidings until trace of it was lost. The men brought in from the east and branded by union leaders as "professional strike-breakers" were held today on the special train outside the city.

The crowd attacked the Canal street barn in the early hours of the morning and after stoning the buildings and parked street cars, started the fire. The police sought vainly to disperse the crowds with tear gas bombs but they only would scatter, then reassemble.

Police Breaking Up Crowds.
Firemen tried to prevent dynamite thrown into the Polard barn from exploding by drenching it with water, but it went off. The explosions did little damage. All up and down Canal street the tracks were blocked and torn up and extensive repairs will be required before cars can be operated.

The City Commission Council continued its order to Public Service, Inc., to postpone further efforts to operate cars and the police today were making some headway in breaking up crowds.

Application for a Federal injunction to restrain officers and members of the street car men's union from interfering with the operation of street cars or damaging the company's property was filed here today on behalf of the bondholders of New Orleans Public Service, Inc. The petitioners said the interests of the bondholders had been jeopardized by acts of violence of the union men and their sympathizers. Judge Wayne G. Borah of the United States District Court ordered representatives of the union to appear in court on July 9 to show cause why the injunction should not be granted.

Threats to call out the Building and Metal Trades Council members in sympathy with car strikers have been sent to the City Council. The pending schedule, said the Public Service Company's importation of strike breakers, declared William Ruth, president of the Trades Union Council.

Two persons have been killed and many injured in the rioting thus far.

The strike started July 1, over the renewal of a three-year contract, and grew to menacing proportions with an attempt by the Public Service to operate street cars with crews of outsiders.

The union claimed the contract denied it a voice in arbitration of suspensions and dismissals.

The City Council has offered to mediate the dispute.

ANN LIVINGSTON AS COLD, CALCULATING

Charges She Misrepresented Affair With Nax and Her Divorce, and Went Out With Other Men.

HARDING'S STORY
CALLED A LIE

Divorcee's Attorney Says Millionaire Paid for 'Pure Perjury' From Women Who Attacked Her.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 6.—Ann Livingston, Tulsa (Ok.) divorcee, was characterized as a cold, calculating woman by the defense today as the trial of her $250,000 breach of promise suit against Franklin Harding, 62-year-old manufacturer of oil burners, closed.

The case went to the jury at 2:32 p. m. Of Harding, the chief attorney for Miss Livingston said: "With a lie on his lips and malice in his heart, he knew he was doing this girl wrong."

Miss Livingston's attorneys asked that she be given punitive damages as well as compensation because, they contended, her character was attacked by the testimony of Mrs. Victor C. Heath of Omaha, Neb., who said the plaintiff was indiscreet with men as a girl in Little Rock, Ark.

He charged Mrs. Heath's testimony was "pure perjury, bought and paid for." He also attacked Mrs. James Beyer of Tulsa, Miss Livingston's former landlady and friend, who said Miss Livingston told of planning to marry Harding and divorce him to obtain money.

The lawyer charged that all of Harding's testimony was false and said he felt sorry for Josephine Brand, his housekeeper.

"He terrorized with Josephine through the years and then gave her a rotten deal," said Attorney Erlich, who likened Miss Brand and defense Attorney John A. Bussan to lags in Othello. They were the two lags, he said, who worked to turn Harding against his pretty plaintiff on the very eve of their proposed marriage.

Attorney Bussan told the jury he had five defenses. First, he contended, Miss Livingston was represented her affair with Charles Nax, St. Louis advertising man, to Harding. Secondly, he said, she misrepresented the circumstances of her divorce from Robert Puffer, a small patch of land in the Missouri River.

Thirty-Nine Agents and 12 Other Officers Serve Warrants on Under-Cover Men's Evidence.

By the Associated Press.
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 6.—Thirty-nine Federal prohibition agents, ten St. Joseph police officers and three Deputy Sheriffs, armed with 48 warrants, today began wholesale raids on suspected liquor selling places here.

The raids were led by W. Harold Lane, Kansas City Deputy in charge of Federal prohibition enforcement in this district. The warrants were obtained from information filed by undercover officers who have been working here for the last two weeks.

Several hundred persons followed the officers about town.

SOCIETY WOMAN TO AID IN PROSECUTING EX-HUSBAND
Mrs. Marion Hollander, Who Married Father's Chauffeur, Says He Perjured Self in Divorce Suit.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Mrs. Marion Hollander, a descendant of President Zachary Taylor and daughter of the late William Henry Taylor, a wealthy New York banker, appeared in Superior Court yesterday to aid in prosecuting her divorced husband, George Hollander of Chicago, once the family chauffeur, on a charge of perjury.

Hollander obtained a divorce last November by default after alleging misconduct on the part of his wife. He said he was ready to go to trial to prove his allegations were not perjury. His attorney said he would introduce letters alleged to have been exchanged by Mrs. Hollander and Otto Lang, named as co-respondent.

Mrs. Hollander's marriage to the family chauffeur in 1926 caused a stir in Washington society circles and resulted in her father's disowning her. The pair came to Chicago, and Hollander became an instructor in mathematics at Lewis Institute. Since obtaining the divorce he had been remarried. He is an electrical engineer.

Portrait of Governor's Wife Will Be Hung in Executive Mansion.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 6.—An oil portrait of Mrs. Henry S. Caulfield, was presented to Gov. and Mrs. Caulfield by the Governor's personal colonels at a reception at the executive mansion this afternoon.

The portrait, which was painted by Charles Galt, St. Louis artist, will be hung in the mansion along with the portraits of former Governors' wives. W. A. Meleto of St. Louis, commander of the Governor's staff or 38 colonels, made the presentation. Tonight Gov. and Mrs. Caulfield will be hosts at a garden party on the mansion grounds.

MONKEY ELUDES RE-CAPTURE
Zoo Officials Abandon Chase After Two Weeks.

A gray monkey that escaped from its cage in the zoo two weeks ago still is at large in Forest Park and attendants have definitely abandoned the chase. Numerous times they have been almost within reach of the simian, but each time it has eluded them by a sufficient margin to retain its freedom.

The monkey has been living on scraps of food picked up at the picnic grounds, and has been sleeping in treetops. Zoo attendants believe it will be willing to exchange freedom for warmth when the weather turns cold, but until then it can roam the park without fear of apprehension.

By the Associated Press.
MAMMOTH HOT SPRINGS, Yellowstone National Park, Wyo., July 6.—George Landroy, editor of Le Matin, an Antwerp, Belgium, newspaper, died at the Mammoth Hot Springs Hotel yesterday of burns caused from boiling water from Castle Geyser.

Mr. Landroy, who was a member of the Carnegie Foundation tour of European journalists, was inspecting the formation of Grand Geyser, Wednesday evening, when the Castle, its near neighbor, started an eruption. The boiling water covered him before he could get out of the way.

The editor received first aid treatment at Old Faithful Lodge and then was taken to Mammoth Hot Springs Hotel.

He is survived by his mother and a brother, Eugene Landroy, both of Brussels.

The body of the editor was taken to Livingston, Mont. Arrangements for sending it back to Antwerp were held in abeyance pending communications with Washington by other members of the party. It is thought the tour of the editors will be continued despite the tragedy as members are scheduled to sail for their return trip July 19.

Commander Transmits Message to Chicago for Carl O. Petersen, Wireless Operator.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 6.—Permission to obtain final citizenship papers by radio was sought yesterday in a radiogram from Commander Richard E. Byrd, applying for his radio operator, Carl O. Petersen. The message was to United States District Court Clerk Charles M. Bates.

Byrd, who with his expedition is near the South Pole, suggested he, as an officer of the United States Navy, might administer the oath of allegiance to Petersen. He explained Petersen is seeking a commission as a reserve officer in the United States Air Corps, where he is now serving as a Sergeant.

The request was referred to the chief of the Naturalization Service here, who in turn asked Washington for instructions.

Weariness Caused Aviators to Come Down — They Say Motor Was Still Going Strong.

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, O., July 6.—Roy L. Mitchell and Byron K. Newcomb today set a new record for endurance flight in an airplane. They were aloft 174 hours and 59 seconds.

After remaining in the air from a week ago Friday afternoon until 12:30:30 this morning they brought their plane to earth at Cleveland Airport.

They exceeded by 1 hour 28 minutes and 58 seconds the old mark set recently in Fort Worth, Tex., by Reginald Robbins and James Kelley, who remained aloft 72 hours 23 minutes and 1 second.

Weariness brought the flyers to a landing and the riotous acclaim of 75,000 persons, one of whom was killed, after a flight which became more hazardous and difficult as the days cut down their physical endurance.

Youth Electrocutd.
The field was overrun, and it was during this rush that Steve Kusko, 16 years old, lost his life. He climbed to a vantage point atop an electric interurban car and was electrocuted.

Twelve hours before the flight ended the plane went through a severe electrical storm, which damaged the fuselage of the flyers' craft and also the refueling plane in a forced landing and stopped all other air traffic.

Exhausted, the flyers immediately on landing were taken to a hotel, to sleep throughout the day if they desired. "We broke the record. That's enough. All we want now is sleep," Newcomb said.

Resting with them was Ernest Basham, pilot of the refueling plane, who completed 24 contacts during the flight to replenish the supply of gasoline, oil and food.

Roads Are Jammed.
Roads were jammed for miles, and the airport was crowded with spectators when the record was equalled shortly before midnight. The crowd increased as the Stinson-Detroit monoplane, City of Cleveland, powered by a Wright Whirlwind motor, rode through the darkness, concealed in the murky atmosphere high above the airport.

The crowd joined in a terrific outburst as the record was set at 12:30:30. Rockets and flares were released in salute to the flyers. A display of fireworks added to the brilliance of lights at the field.

A little later the lights of the plane appeared as the pilots dropped from the altitude of 3000 feet which they had held early in the night. Twinkling against the darkness the lights swung about the airport, straightened out to the East and then rose again.

Thinking that the flight was to continue, the crowd tried to disperse but few had left their places at 12:37 when a red flare, the signal of a landing, was dropped from the plane.

Less than 10 minutes later the wheels touched earth. Then the crowd charged. Police were helpless. As the pilots swung the slip around hundreds crowded around it, hanging to the wings and tail as it was drawn to the hangar of the Stewart Aircraft Corporation, backers of the flight. It was then that the youth was electrocuted.

Mitchell and Newcomb rose smiling from their seats and stepped out. Again the mob fought to get near the flyers. They were hurried into the company's offices inside the hangar and many of those unable to follow fell upon the plane, tearing it with their hands as they sought souvenirs. It was not seriously damaged, however. Once inside the office, the men said they tried out that they had broken the record and that they saw no reason for flying longer against the weariness which tortured them. They praised the performance of their engine and plane, and declared their motor would have functioned indefinitely.

FEDERAL FARM BOARD TO START WORK ON JULY 15

Over Confident Three Vacancies Will Be Filled by That Time—Now Waiting Acceptances.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Confidence that the Federal Farm Board has its full membership next week, President Hoover has decided to start it July 15 on its work to stabilize agriculture.

The first meeting, which will take place in the White House, will precede the reconvening of the Senate by more than a month, but in view of the desire of the administration to have the board functioning in time to meet the situation affecting the crops, the members will go to work under recess appointments and of waiting for confirmation.

Several persons have accepted the board, and appointments to the three vacant places have been offered. The President expects to have acceptances for all these appointments within a few days, and the full membership of the board, including the Secretary of Agriculture serving ex-officio, will be ready to start work on Monday.

The President's law enforcement commission, he is expected to address the first meeting, emphasizing the importance of the board's work. SETTING ASIDE OF DEATH PENALTY BY JUDGE CRITICISED Circuit Attorney Miller Declares Verdict in the Trial of Mexican Laborer Should Stand.

SO INFORMED JURIST BEFORE DECISION

Asserts Jurors Had All Facts and Could Pass on Degree of Guilt in Holdup Murder.

Circuit Judge Rutledge's action in setting aside a death verdict returned by a jury and imposing instead a sentence of life imprisonment on Joe Martinez, Mexican laborer, for the murder in the holdup of Nathan Brodson, clothing merchant, has provoked criticism from the business community.

Circuit Attorney Miller and business men of Brodson's South Side neighborhood. It was learned today that Circuit Attorney Miller conferred privately with Judge Rutledge while the commutation was under consideration, arguing against the court's contemplated action. Questioned by reporters about this conference, the Circuit Attorney issued a typewritten statement in which he expressed the opinion that the jurors fully appreciated their responsibility and that their verdict should not have been disturbed.

Business Men May Protest.
Since the commutation was ordered, officers of the Cherokee Business Men's Association have discussed the matter, deciding to vote on a resolution of protest at their next meeting, July 15. More than 100 business men in the vicinity of Brodson's store at 2317 Cherokee street are members of this organization, although Brodson had not joined.

In commuting Martinez's sentence, Judge Rutledge did not disturb a death verdict against Mike Aguilera, jointly charged and convicted. In a memorandum, the Judge held that there was a marked difference in the degree of guilt of the two men, inasmuch as testimony showed that Martinez was sitting outside in an automobile when the shooting occurred. According to the State's evidence, Aguilera and David Velasco, who is awaiting trial, had entered the store to rob, leaving Martinez outside as a lookout.

Miller's Statement.
Circuit Attorney Miller's statement follows: "Strictly speaking, it is not within the province of the Circuit Attorney to comment upon the decisions and action of the court. In this case I feel it my duty, in answer to your direct question, to register my sense of dissatisfaction with the order of July 2, commuting the sentence of Joe Martinez from death to life imprisonment."

"This case was fairly and ably tried by my assistants, Mr. Flynn and Mr. Woodward, and was submitted to the jury upon proper and legal instructions given by the court. I feel the jury had all the facts and circumstances surrounding the murder of Nathan Brodson before them and were in better position to pass upon the question of the guilt or innocence of the accused, and the severity of their punishment in the event they should be found guilty, than anyone else under our system of jurisprudence."

"The fact that the evidence showed that Martinez did not actually fire the fatal shot, in my opinion, should not prevent the expression of the jury's mature judgment that he was equally guilty with Aguilera in the commission of the murder and subject to the same punishment. The court so instructed the jury and gave them their choice, if they found both men guilty, to impose the extreme penalty of death upon both, or to give them both life imprisonment, or to give one death and the other life."

Jury Appreciated Responsibility.
"Upon the whole record I feel the jury fully appreciated and accepted their responsibility as thus imposed upon them by the court, and that their verdict should not have been disturbed."

"The State has no right to appeal in such cases, and there is no legal method open for the State to have reviewed the action thus taken by the court. But I feel I should be remiss in my duty if I did not register my strong sense of disappointment at this disposition of the matter. I say this with the utmost respect for the court and the able and conscientious judge who presided at the trial of this case."

Packer's Heir Weds Movie Actress

RIVERSIDE, Cal., July 6.

MICHAEL JOHN PATRICK CUDAHY, 21 years old, an heir to the Packer's fortune, and Muriel Avel Evansen, 18, whose motion picture name is Muriel Evans, were married today by Justice of the Peace Leonard Giffani in the basement of the Courthouse here.

part would be considered as a contempt of court. I am making this statement only at the request of the representatives of the press for my views in the matter."

In his memorandum, Judge Rutledge declared he was not criticizing the trial jury but felt that the jury had "failed to recognize the distinction between the guilt of the respective actors." He formally passed sentence on the two men and defense counsel announced that both would appeal to the Supreme Court on the ground that the court had erred in denying them an interpreter during the trial.

Immediately after disposing of the case, Judge Rutledge went on vacation. When he returns he will preside in a civil division in accordance with the periodical reassignment of Circuit Judges.

Widow of Charles M. Swift Gets Life Interest in Residue; $400,000 Goes to Charities at Her Death.
NEW YORK, July 6.—The will of Charles M. Swift, president of the Philippine Railway Co., filed for probate yesterday, disposes of an estate valued at more than $500,000. Mr. Swift died June 21 at Fort Smith, Ark.

A life estate in the residue and all personal and household effects were left to the widow, Mrs. Jessica Swift of New York. Upon her death $300,000 will be distributed among charities and the remainder of the residue will be divided among relatives.

To 10 friends and employees of Swift was bequeathed $10,000 each. On the death of Mrs. Swift, Middlebury College, Vermont, will receive an endowment of $200,000. The New York Orthopedic Dispensary and Hospital and the Detroit Diagnostic Hospital will receive $50,000 each, and Mary E. Grosse-Pointe Farm, Mich., will get $100,000 to distribute among certain Detroit charities that she concludes to be the most deserving.

SERGEANT, TWO POLICEMEN DISMISSED UNDER CHARGES

H. G. Lutker and Patrolman Lehman Found in Saloon; Third Accused of Traffic Violation.
Sergeant Henry G. Lutker and Patrolmen Gustave Lehman and Herman Koenig were dismissed after hearings before the Police Board yesterday.

Inspector Walton testified Lutker and Lehman were found in a saloon with two steins of beer with them and that the two spilled the contents of the steins rather than have it seized as evidence against them. The defendants denied the steins contained beer.

Patrolman Koenig pleaded guilty of charges of driving an automobile while intoxicated, unbecoming conduct and neglect of duty. Testimony was offered that Koenig drove an automobile which struck and injured a woman, but he denied this.

Patrolman Charles Grady was fined $50 for parking his auto on his beat and for neglect of duty.

CRUSHED AGAINST TRUCK AS HE RIDES ON RUNNING BOARD

Frank Kilroy, Salesman, Killed When Brother Drives too Near Machine Parked in Alley.

DEAD WHEN TAKEN TO CITY HOSPITAL

Operator of Automobile Had Swerved to Avoid Two Men Working on Another Car.

Frank Kilroy, 28 years old, a salesman, 4533 Anderson avenue, was crushed to death at 11:45 o'clock last night while riding on the running board of an automobile driven by his brother, Louis Kilroy, 24, 3878 Lotus avenue.

Driving through an alley in the rear of 3829 Cote Brillante avenue, Louis Kilroy swerved his car to avoid striking two men who were working on a car stopped there. In so doing, he drove close to a parked truck, and his brother was crushed between the two vehicles. Frank was dead when taken to City Hospital.

The truck was the property of John Keane, 5823 Cote Brillante. Frank Kilroy had been visiting his brother and was being taken to a street car at the time of the accident. The right hand door lock on his brother's coupe was broken and the door could not be opened, so he volunteered to stand on the running board.

BATTERY A LEAVES FOR CAMP BY TRUCK
National Guard Unit Will Reach Fort Riley, Kan., Next Tuesday.

The 60 members of Battery A, 125th Field Artillery, Missouri National Guard, left the Army, 1221 South Grand boulevard, at 5 o'clock this morning for Fort Riley, Kan., for the annual summer encampment.

Ten trucks, eight heavy and two light vehicles, carrying the men and equipment, including four 75-millimeter field guns, pulled away from the Army promptly on the way to Columbia, where they will camp tonight and where they will meet the Columbia National Guard unit. Sunday they will be joined at Booneville by the unit there, will meet the Mexico unit and will continue over Highway 40 to St. Louis.

REAL ESTATE OFFICE IS SPEAKEASY, RAID DISCLOSES

Six and a Half Cases of Beer and Whisky Found in Vault.

An ostensible real estate office, on the second floor of the Gamble Building at 620 Chestnut street, turned out to be a speakeasy when police raided it at 1:20 p. m. yesterday. On a table, at which three men were seated, two glasses containing beer were found, and in a vault, which in times past held the records of a real estate organization, were discovered six and a half cases of beer, two one-gallon jugs of whisky and a quart of whisky. William C. Carey, 55 years old, who said he lives at 517 Walnut street, and who was in charge of the place, was arrested.

28 KILLED, MANY HURT IN CENTRAL EUROPEAN STORMS

Fierce Gale Starting in Germany Sweeps Bohemia, Austria, Jugo-Slavia and Switzerland.

LONDON, July 6.—Central Europe was swept yesterday by a series of storms, starting in Southern Germany, during which 23 persons were killed and hundreds injured in Czechoslovakia, Austria, Jugo-Slavia, Germany and Switzerland.

The storms, which at times reached hurricane intensity and exceeded 100 miles an hour velocity, did widespread damage, destroying crops in some districts, tearing down telegraph and telephone wires and interrupting railroad traffic.

The wind reached a velocity of 100 miles an hour in Austria, interrupting shipping on the lakes and on the Danube, and maintained an average of 75 miles an hour. It was particularly violent near Nuremberg, Germany, near which city one peasant was killed, thousands of windows were smashed by hail and many homes partially destroyed.

Ten persons were killed at Zentla, Jugo-Slavia, when the River Romena, whipped by the wind, flooded a cottage in which a number of persons had sought shelter. Seven persons were killed in Bohemia and Moravia and 10 in Austria.

Hundreds were injured by falling walls, uprooted trees and flying debris. There also were two unusual freaks. In one village, Orozim, Moravia, the wind wrecked the cemetery and exposed coffins. At Pardubice, Bohemia, a passenger alighting from a train was blown under the wheels of a coach and was killed when the train started.

FORMER JUDGE PRIEST SUES TO FIND OUT OIL PROFITS

Says Attorneys in Deal With Him Never Made Any Accounting.

A suit for an accounting of oil profits alleged to have been earned in the Irma fields, Nevada County, Ark., was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by former Federal Judge George W. Holler, who was arrested in 1927 for conspiracy to defraud the O'Brien and James J. O'Brien, attorneys, with offices in the Central National Bank Building.

According to the petition, the three lawyers on April 25, 1927, secured from the O'Brien brothers, who were engaged to be married on June 20, and that her father had seriously objected, had been disclosed by Coroner P. H. Childs, investigating the shooting last Thursday of Miss Irma Hendershott, 16 years old, of Hammond, Ind., who then turned his revolver on himself before the girl's father could send a charge from a shotgun into his body.

Coroner Childs found that Mayberry had adopted an assumed name, being known in Hammond, and for Wayne, where he formerly resided, as Fred A. Hurst. Several times in her letters Miss Hendershott had begged him to permit her to write to him under his own name but he had objected.

The Coroner learned that Mayberry went to the Hendershott home a week ago and asked the girl's father, William Hendershott, to permit them to be married. The father objected. Mayberry had written to the girl to meet him at a store Thursday, but when he failed to find her there he went to her home and talked to her. They were standing in the back yard at the family residence when he drew a revolver and fired four shots into her body. He then removed the discharged shells, reloaded the weapon, fired another shot at the girl, and then turned it on himself. He had fallen to the ground and was dying when the girl's father ran to the house. He raised his shotgun and sent a charge into the face of the dying man.

GETS FOUR-YEAR TERM FOR THEFT OF LETTERS

Sam Steinfeld Got About $200 From Mail in Apartment House Boxes.

Sam Steinfeld, a brother of Harry Steinfeld, star third baseman of the Chicago Cubs in their championship days, was sentenced to four years in prison by Federal Judge Farris today when he admitted stealing letters from the mail.

Steinfeld, who is 56 years old, told the court he lost up to last $4000 in the restaurant business in Weston and resorted to theft to keep his wife and three children from starving. He admitted examining 500 letters in apartment mail boxes and stealing 40 of them from which he took about $200. He was arrested last March after stealing a letter addressed to A. J. Plesner from an apartment mail box at 5746 Kingsbury boulevard. The letter contained a $27 check.

STABS SELF WHEN HE IS ARRESTED ON BIGAMY CHARGE

George W. Holler, 39, Uses Pocketknife as Patrolman Turns to Telephone for Police Patrol.

ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE FAILS

Second Wife Tells Story of Wife No. 1, Whom He Married July 5, 1922; Planned Divorce, He Says

Arrested for bigamy, George W. Holler, 39 years old, a switchman, 6814A Clayton avenue, stabbed himself with a pocket knife at 7 o'clock last night.

Two policemen went to the Holler home to investigate a disturbance of the peace.

Holler fled through an alley to McCausland avenue and tried to escape in his automobile, which was parked there, but the engine stalled and he was captured.

Taken back to the house, Holler was accused by his wife, Myrtle, of threatening to kill her. "I'll tell you all about it, officers," said Mrs. Holler. "He's a bigamist. He married me last April 12 at Nashville, Ill. Three weeks ago I found out he had another wife, Mrs. Rose Holler, who lives at 3035 Argyle avenue, Overland Park. He married her in 1922. When a policeman went to a telephone to summon a patrol wagon, Holler suddenly drew his pocketknife and plunged the blade into his left chest. He was taken to City Hospital, where his condition is serious."

The license for the automobile he used to escape had been issued to him at the Overland address. The bigamy evidence will be presented to the Circuit Attorney.

GIRL AND MAN WHO KILLED HER WERE TO HAVE WED JUNE 20

But Her Father Objected; Pair Talking at Her Home When Sutor Shot Her.

By the Associated Press.
KEWANEE, Mo., July 6.—Letters showing they were engaged to be married on June 20, and that her father had seriously objected, had been disclosed by Coroner P. H. FUNERAL SERVICES TOMORROW FOR THE REV. W. E. SULLENS

Several Pastors to Assist at Ceremonies at Kirkwood M. E. Church.
The funeral of the Rev. Dr. William E. Sullens, pastor of Kirkwood Methodist Church, who fell dead yesterday at his home, 148 West Washington avenue, Kirkwood, will be held at 4 p. m. tomorrow at his church, with pastors of several Methodist Episcopal churches assisting. Burial will take place at Springfield, Mo., the Rev. Mr. Sullens' former home.

Dr. Sullens, who was 46 years old, died apparently of heart disease. He had been pastor of the church for three years and before that pastor of University Methodist Episcopal Church for three years, coming from Springfield where he had occupied the pulpit of Campbell Street Methodist Episcopal Church.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ray Rusk Sullens, and two children, Eleanor, 9 years old, and William E. Jr., 13.

FEDERAL JUDGE ANDERSON OF INDIANAPOLIS TO RETIRE

Aged Jurist, Appointed Under Roosevelt, Applies to President for Pension.
CHICAGO, July 6.—After 28 years on the Federal Court bench, Judge Albert B. Anderson of Indianapolis has applied to President Hoover for permission to retire on a pension. It was learned yesterday, Judge Anderson, who is 72 years old, is signing in the United States Circuit Court at Indianapolis.

He was appointed to the Federal bench by President Roosevelt and was elevated to the Appeals bench in 1925 by President Coolidge. He is two years over the pension limit. During his career as a judge he presided over several noteworthy trials, the most recent being that of Warren T. McCray, former Governor of Indiana, who was sent to Federal prison for using the mails to defraud.

The plaintiff charges that defendants, who are in a competitive business, caused the circulation of damaging statements concerning the company. Earlier in the day Colony Vintages had posted a $4000 appeal bond to release its office at 18 South Broadway from custody in case of sheriff's attachment. On Wednesday made a levy under execution issued at the direction of Rader. The execution was based on a $2000 judgment obtained by him also in a slander action against Colony Vintages, and from which the company has appealed.

MOODY DECLINES TO CRITICIZE MRS. HOOVER

Approves Resolution Insofar as It Condemns Custom Allowing Negro to Attend Tea.

By the Associated Press.
AUSTIN, Tex., July 6.—Gov. Moody yesterday approved in part and disapproved in part the concurrent resolution passed by the Texas Legislature condemning Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the President, for entertaining the wife of a Negro Congressman at a White House tea.

"Any part of this resolution which may be reasonably construed as a personal criticism of the wife of the President of the United States of America does not have my approval and I decline to have any part in it," he said in a statement, filed with the document in the Secretary of State's office.

Referring to a section of the resolution which reminded Southern Democrats who voted for the Republican presidential nominee that they had been warned that such incidents as the one condemned might happen, the Governor said:

"Recognizing the right of every citizen to vote his own convictions, I do not assert the right to officially uphold any because they exercise the liberty to hold and vote views different from mine, nor do I approve any attempt at official criticism of any citizen's vote."

The resolution has his "heartly approval" insofar as "it condemns customs that bring the two races into contact upon the same social plane," he stated.

"Any mingling of the races upon a basis of social equality is intolerable and no precedent can justify it," he said.

ONE GRAPE JUICE COMPANY SUES ANOTHER FOR SLANDER

Damages Totalling $70,000 Asked for in Circuit Court by Colony Vintages, Inc.
Slander suits for damages totaling $70,000 were filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Colony Vintages, Inc., and its president, William Davis, against the California Grape Juice Co. and its president, Max Rader, with offices at 2519 Easton avenue.

The plaintiff charges that defendants, who are in a competitive business, caused the circulation of damaging statements concerning the company. Earlier in the day Colony Vintages had posted a $4000 appeal bond to release its office at 18 South Broadway from custody in case of sheriff's attachment. On Wednesday made a levy under execution issued at the direction of Rader. The execution was based on a $2000 judgment obtained by him also in a slander action against Colony Vintages, and from which the company has appealed.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

England and War Debts.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

OUR quotation of former Senator James A. Reed's declaration, referring to the British fortified islands in the Caribbean Sea, that "those cannon are pointed straight at Panama," recalls the debate on the World War debts when that declaration was made. England was asking entire remission or material reduction of her war debts to us, pleading poverty. Reed and other Senators said that she was in valuable lands scattered all over the globe and that, if she could not repay us in money, she could turn over to us the fortified islands in the Caribbean which were a menace to our canal properties in Panama and Nicaragua. Instead, our generous-hearted Government remitted 20 per cent of what was due us and gave her 67 years to pay the remainder, charging only 5 1/2 per cent interest, while we are still paying 4 1/2 per cent ourselves for the money borrowed from our people to loan to her. The World War debt settlements was one of the many reasons which caused the patriotic Reed to retire in disgust from public life.

Objects to Tolstol's Story.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

NO person who heard Count Ilya Tolstol speak on Tuesday and Wednesday can have failed to be impressed with the ability and earnestness of the much-travelled expatriate. Both for that reason and on grounds of principle it is regrettable that in the belated publicity accorded to the Count the Post-Dispatch saw fit to lapse from its accustomed courtesy and fairness toward the guest within the gate. The topheavy levity of tone and a tell determination to reduce a dignified subject to the terms of lower comedy make your article of July 3 decidedly incongruous with your usual interest in bold yet balanced thinking.

OTTO HELLER.

Tolstol's Disqualifications.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY seems to have been roped in by the attractive description of Count Ilya Tolstol by his New York book agents. The Count, who spoke here Wednesday on "Russia, Before and Since Bolshevism," is certainly not a qualified expert on his subject.

According to his own admission, Tolstol has not been in his native land for the last 12 years. What can he know about Russia since Bolshevism? He predicts the fall of the soviet regime. He does not know the facts.

Before the revolution he was a member of what is called the "Intelligentsia." These were Russians who tried to imitate Western civilization. They spoke French in preference to Russian and divided their time between Saint Petersburg and Paris. Real Russian life they did not understand and Russian life they were unable to even see. What did the Count Ilya know of Russia before the revolution?

The Count speaks of the illiteracy of the Russian peasant. That is provable. He neglects to mention that illiteracy will be wiped out in another generation by the new soviet policy of compulsory education which is second to none in the world. The United States ranks second.

Garden Theater's Productions.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AS a patron of both the Municipal Theater and the Garden Theater, I desire to protest against the inadequate and unfair reviews which the other papers have given of this week's production of "Louie XIV."

The Garden Theater is doing a wonderful piece of work and deserves the wholehearted support of the public. There is plenty of room in St. Louis for the Garden Theater, as well as the Municipal Theater. Let's support them both enthusiastically.

THEATER FAN.

Favors Unconditional Pardon.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

KINDLY disposed gentleman, indeed, is your correspondent who registers as "N. H. L." takes the Post-Dispatch to task for its editorial and cartoon dealing with the treatment accorded a mother of 16 children by the Federal Court at Fort Smith, Ark., following a plea of guilty to a first offense against the Volstead code. Eighteen months in a Federal prison, a thousand or more miles away from her home and children, seems to suit "N. H. L." very much, though he is sorry for the Judge who has been criticized for his severity. Another thing in this correspondent's contribution that might be considered. He says the District Attorney down there had heard reports of previous violations of the sacred Volstead act by this same woman before the undercover agents succeeded in making the first case. It certainly doesn't look reasonable or just to convict a person on "reports," especially in a United States Court of Record. There is certainly a very wide breach between "reports" and competent evidence.

This case is sufficient to make anyone see red. The Government should quickly act and give Mrs. Post an unconditional pardon.

CHRISTIAN.

A TERRIBLE STORY.

The simple annals of the city's experience with street car franchises over a period of 30 years were published in yesterday's Post-Dispatch.

It is a terrible story. Stock watering, safe cracking, burglary, bribery, conspiracy, secret deals with the city hall, broken promises, inflated fares, and fictitious values—all these litter the record in a sequence that points its own moral. The moral is that no city which does not want to have its law-makers bribed, its courts corrupted, its contracts violated, its rights contemned, and its street car fares doubled, should traffic with franchise pirates.

The boodle expose which made the late Joseph W. Folk a national figure had its origin in the same evil which recently gave St. Louis the spectacle of a conspiracy against the charter. Both were rooted in the franchise requirements of profiteers. Time and again the street railways of St. Louis have been exploited, and always the situation has been the same—the exploiters had to have a franchise. J. K. Newman, who is exploiting the street railways of the city now, publicly boasted: "I am going to get the franchise. I will not say when, but I will get it. I have never failed yet and I won't fail in St. Louis." So it has been for 30 years. They always got the franchise. Sometimes they had to bribe the aldermen to do it. Sometimes they had to hire safebreakers. Sometimes they had to go to prison. Sometimes they had to flee the country—but they always got what they wanted.

The people who are now trying to exploit this property, and whose conspiracy to get a perpetual franchise was defeated only by the hardihood of Gov. Caulfield, have persisted for five years. What the Post-Dispatch has had in mind in opposing these profiteers is the welfare of a community which has been exploited so many years and in which both government and justice have been so often corrupted and perverted by franchise hunters that it is time to consider how long this melodrama should be suffered to run.

When Mr. Newman and his associates went to the city hall for a franchise they had in mind exactly what other exploiters of these ill-fated properties had in mind. As Mr. Newman said to the Federal Electric Railways Commission some years ago, "The franchise was always uppermost in my mind; it gives the property an enormous value above its physical worth." They wanted to sell the securities of the company, take their profits, and leave the buyers of these securities to hold the sack. At one time these properties were capitalized for more than $100,000,000. When the end came holders of more than $40,000,000 worth of securities found their investments worthless. Asked about the widows and orphans holding such securities Mr. Newman told the Federal Commission that in their case it was just too bad. It is to protect the investing public against such losses, as well as to preserve the city's rights to the streets and the integrity of the charter, that the Post-Dispatch has fought and defeated both the attempt to get a franchise extension at the city hall and the subsequent conspiracy to get a perpetual franchise through the Legislature.

How long will St. Louis put up with such practices? How long will it stand by and silently witness this appalling sequence of stock watering, safe cracking, burglary, bribe giving, bribe taking, conspiracy, secret deals, broken promises, inflated fares, and fictitious values? There is another way out than the doubtful expedient of public ownership. The Post-Dispatch has told what it is. The company can operate under a permit granted by the city. With such a permit as the People's Bus Co. has, and as the company itself has for its own buses, it can continue to do business at a fair profit upon its actual investment. It needs a franchise only for purposes entirely outside those of doing a profitable business upon the basis of money actually invested in it. It is failing now to make any return upon the $13,500,000 of water pumped into its valuation for rate making. Neither is it in a position to unload another lot of worthless securities upon the public. To do that sort of thing, to inflate street car fares, and make plausible its securities, it requires a franchise.

That is the reason Mr. Newman wants a new long term franchise in St. Louis, the franchise he says he has never failed to get, and which he says he will get here. If, when the company's present franchise expires in 1939—if indeed that franchise is valid—it is compelled to ask for a permit under which to operate, the city will recapture entire control over the utility. It will be able to agree with the company on a fare based upon the money invested in the property. There will be no more running to the Public Service Commission for exorbitant valuations under the mandates of the United States Supreme Court. There will be no more bribery, burglary, safe-blowing. No more prison sentences, flights, conspiracies, and secret deals. No more will be heard of fares based upon what it would cost to reproduce the property. Nor would the company itself be in the plight it is today. It would not have to carry either the burden of an extreme valuation or public resentment of unreasonable fares.

The simple annals of the city's experience with street car franchises over 30 years should be tacked on the wall in every St. Louis home. It is a story that cannot fail to impress its moral upon the public mind.

AS TO THE SHATTERING OF MYTHS.

Robert W. Chambers has joined his fellow novelist, Rupert Hughes, in rewriting the early history of the United States. In the Woman's Home Companion Chambers says that much of what is called revolutionary history is really superstition and falsity. He classifies as myths the flight of Ethan Allen's single-handed capture of Ticonderoga, Israel Putnam's ride down a staircase to outwit the British. He points out that many of the "ragged Colonials" were in reality fashion plates, clothed in very attractive uniforms. As for the Continental Congress, supposedly a heroic, patriotic body with but a single thought, it was perhaps the most stupid, mean-minded law-making body that has ever gathered.

All this is extremely distasteful to the Daughters of the American Revolution and other societies interested in preserving ancient frauds, as was Rupert Hughes' life of Washington. Hughes masterfully demolished the Parson Weems' version of the Father of Our Country and proved, in a carefully documented and conscientiously written book, that he was not a plaster saint at all, but a man of flesh and blood. This was done merely by cutting away the mass of apocrypha and legend and setting forth the facts. Is Washington's inspirational force thus destroyed? We think not. On the contrary, having become more plausible, Washington's life is closer to the range of the average man.

Several years ago Andre Siegfried, a penetrating French critic, gave us the compliment of saying that America has come of age. It is a sign of intellectual maturity that we are striving to know ourselves and to get a better understanding of our origin. To some that may seem a process of disillusion, but it is only the kind of disillusion that every child must face when he learns definitely that there is no Santa Claus.

A GRADE CROSSING POLICY.

Director Brooks of the Streets and Sewers Department makes some admirable suggestions in his annual report for the solution of the grade crossing problem. The essential thing, he believes, is, first of all, to formulate a general policy on which the city and the railroads can agree. Such a policy must necessarily be fair as regards apportionment of costs both to the city and the railroads. An agreement must be reached, too, as to the crossings that must be removed—that is, the order in which the work of separation will be done. The program as proposed also includes a careful study of the safety devices to be installed where separation is not practicable.

In previous discussions the Post-Dispatch has outlined what other states are doing with this problem, particularly New York, Massachusetts and Ohio. The Federal Government is associated in the enterprise through a national committee, which is making a survey of the whole situation. St. Louis is represented on that committee. Further, our local Safety Council, headed by Col. Albert T. Perkins, is preparing data on grade crossings in the St. Louis district.

The procedure proposed by Mr. Brooks will, we are confident, command the approval of public opinion. We believe, too, that the city administration can count upon the enthusiastic support of public opinion for any plan of action that conforms to the principles of equity and necessity stipulated in Mr. Brooks' report.

Prof. Zimmern, a European scholar interested in America, says we must "depoliticize nationality and demotionalize politics." Meanwhile, people like Henry Mencken and Sinclair Lewis are going ahead enthusiastically with simple debunking.

THE PICTURESCAPE FRENCH.

After the House of Deputies made something of a monkey of itself over the $400,000,000 due us August 1 for war supplies left over there at the close of the war, France turned around and celebrated the Fourth of July as if it might have been her own. It reminds us of what Dean Inge said in the Fiftieth Anniversary Number of the Post-Dispatch:

"The world would be infinitely poorer without those exasperating neighbors of ours, the French."

In the Atlanta Constitution the Rev. Sam Small sadly observes that "there haven't been any great Georgians since Ben Hill and Henry Grady passed on." The Rev. Mr. Small has apparently forgotten Ty Cobb and never has heard of Bobby Jones.

DR. WILSON'S DRY-OR-DIE.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson has declared war. He wants the President of the United States to mobilize the Army and Navy and blow the Volstead violators into smithereens. He admits this procedure might be a bit drastic, but the doctor is not of the kind of man to be frightened by a word. Drastic or not, whatever the cost, prohibition must be enforced. That is the doctor's ultimatum.

This Army-and-Navy idea of enforcement is not original with Dr. Wilson. Henry Ford beat him to it by four or five years. Mr. Coolidge did not react to the Ford suggestion. In fact, he never let on that he heard it. But Mr. Ford spoke without authority while Dr. Wilson is something of a generalissimo. He is the spokesman of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals. He is at present the Fuzzy-Wuzzy of the dry cause. He is certain that Mr. Hoover is listening to every word he says, and with a sympathetic ear. He expects the President to act.

We suspect Dr. Wilson is going to be disappointed. We doubt that the Army and Navy will be ordered by the Commander-in-Chief to lay waste the cities and the land, which is just about what they would have to do to carry out Dr. Wilson's instructions. And would rural America escape unscathed? Has the demon rum been banished from the smiling valleys and bosky dells and sylvan shades of the countryside? A good many folks like Dr. Wilson think so, but they are all wrong. If a dry Genghis Khan is to be turned loose on us he will only have started on his job when he has reduced the cities to dust, Kansas, alma mater of the prohibitionists, is now, they say, as wet as the Atlantic ocean, and Clarence Cat's delenda est must be applied there as ruthlessly as to wanton Maryland, sinful New York, erring Wisconsin, and backsliding Montana.

It is no exaggeration to say that continental United States will look like a devastated area if Dr. Wilson's Dry-or-Die finality is executed in the spirit in which it is promulgated. But it won't be. Dr. Wilson has probably been working too hard. He must rest. He needs to relax. He needs—well, a mild julep of the old Kentucky genre would do wonders for that troubled man.

Farming is still in hard luck. The chairman of the new farm board found it to distribute the $500,000 relief fund is named Legge instead of Leggo.

Conditions in St. Louis Circuit Courts

A reply to "Banker" whose letter to the Post-Dispatch criticized the Judges for taking long vacations despite a crowded docket; St. Louis has eight trial Judges as against 50 for Chicago and 40 for Los Angeles; an explanation why summer sessions have not been feasible.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE letter you published recently from "Banker," which is merely one of a number of the same kind criticizing the Judges of the Circuit Court for not trying cases during the hot season, is so unfair that I feel prompted to give you a lawyer's side of the situation.

Conditions in the old courthouse have been for years and are now such that, on account of the summer heat, windows must be kept wide open, with the result that the noises caused by street cars, automobiles, etc., make it next to impossible to hear what is going on. It is also the time of the year when litigants, witnesses and lawyers do not want to be cooped in a room trying lawsuits. Many litigants are out of the city or intend to be, same with witnesses and jury men. Besides, lawyers who have been working steadily since the previous September, which, taking in the month of June, is practically 10 months of the year, are also tired and want to go on vacations and want to rest and get in shape for the next court season's work. When everybody else goes on vacations and leaves for a while, why should Judges be forced to hold court?

The fact that there are, according to "Banker," 24,000 cases on the docket, which he says will be increased to 25,000 by Oct. 1, is not the fault of the Judges, but of the people who want to sue and, of course, find lawyers willing to accommodate them. All that the Judges in jury rooms can do, and there are only eight of them, is to try cases as they are assigned to them. The fault is not with the Judges, who put in as much time during the season when cases can be tried as any other set of Judges does, possibly more than Mr. Banker does in his business. Even if our Judges tried one case a day on each day of the week, that is, seven-civil cases each week, they could only dispose of 70 cases. It is not often that a case is finished the day it starts; some cases, like a contested will case, take three or four days or a week, sometimes longer than that.

I have been informed that Chicago has 50 trial Judges; Los Angeles has 40.

If Mr. Banker had eight clerks, or whatever other name he gives his employees, and would have a rush of thousands of customers he would very quickly hire enough others to meet the demand, but our Legislature has refused for many years to increase the number to such a number as will facilitate the disposition of cases. Besides, Mr. Banker goes on vacations and can leave his business with some assistant or subordinate, unfortunately, our Judges cannot do that; they alone must do the work which is assigned to them by the law. There is no more faithful and conscientious body of Judges anywhere than St. Louis possesses.

The fact that there are so many jury and equity cases in which there are no juries on the docket has prevented our Judges from taking up condemnation cases so that important public work has to be sidetracked. Our last Legislature, however, increased the number of Judges by two, which will help some. It should have provided for a dozen at least. Our important criminal cases are handled by three Judges, our divorce cases by two Judges. Perhaps some way would be devised to have all the divorce cases tried by one Judge, which would add another to the courtroom usable for jury trials. The offices of these additional Judges which we need, when we once get them and get the great bulk of 25,000 cases out of the way and get back to normal, could be reduced. In other words, as in a store, when the big rush is over, the clerks and salesmen are discharged; but the State's and city's expenses are so large that the State's and city's revenue, it is said, will not warrant our having all the Judges we need.

As to the discomfort caused by the courtrooms in the old courthouse being on the first and second floors and, therefore, close to the noises of the streets, that will be obviated to a great extent in the new courthouse building; the rooms there may be so far away from the noise and so cool that possibly cases can be tried there during the summer months. That, however, cannot be determined until next summer. I remember many years ago one of our Circuit Judges set the docket throughout the month of July, setting 30 cases each week, with the result that he only tried a few cases in which juries were waived, and deprived himself of his much-needed vacation. He did not set his docket again during the summer time.

Possibly Mr. Banker is so constituted that he cannot have brain-fag; if so, he is lucky. I would like to have him sit in a courtroom during the hot season all day for a whole week; he would soon find out why our Judges suffer from "brain-fag." It seems to me that all a Judge has to do is sit on the bench like a referee at a prize fight. The latter has nothing to do after the fight is finished, while the Judge has to set apart some of his time each week hearing arguments on motions for new trials, reading briefs, reading the decisions cited in the briefs, and consider the points to be decided. The Judges of our equity courts, in which no jury cases are tried, are still busier. One of them I know is at work by 8:30 o'clock each morning and stays at least until 5:30. Which I venture to say Mr. Banker does not. All that Mr. Banker does is, I presume, his duty as an officer in a bank or possibly stock broker. Our Judges have, on the contrary, the most important questions to decide; in murder cases the question of life or death; in other cases, freedom or imprisonment in the penitentiary or workhouse; and at that, Mr. Banker probably makes five or six times more income than our Circuit Judges do for much more work. Running a bank or stock business is decidedly different from being a Judge of the Circuit Court.

Under the present system, by which one Judge assigns jury cases to the eight jury trial Judges, more cases are disposed of than by the old system, by which cases were divided equally among all the Judges. Be that as it may, it frequently happens that out of the docket of 150 cases set each week in the assignment division, sometimes not a dozen are ready for trial, the result being that the Judges have very little to do that week. That is not their fault any more than if the banker's doors are open more customers do not come in to patronize him. The same thing happens in the equity division; 12, 13 or 15 cases are sometimes set

WASHINGTON, July 4.

I N a St. Louis office some 33 years ago two men sat down to discuss what his still held in store for them.

Both were immensely wealthy. Robert S. Brookings was only 46 years old and had acquired his wealth over a span of 23 years. He had started as a receiving clerk at a salary of $25 a month—the exact cost of his board. Samuel Cupples, a much older man, had been Brookings' employer and was one of the foremost manufacturers of St. Louis.

The result of this discussion was that both agreed they had had about all the fun they could get out of making money. The thing to do the remainder of their lives was to try enjoy spending it.

Brookings began. And now, at the age of 79, he is known throughout the United States as one of America's most interesting philanthropists. This man, who has crowded into the last 30 years more achievements than most men manage in a lifetime, lives in Washington. He may be found at almost any time in his office, 26 Jackson place, in sight of the White House, hard at work. For even at his advanced age he is still busy.

SINCE the day he decided to enjoy spending his money he has developed a towering college into a great university of world-wide fame.

He has organized and perfected three institutions for scientific research into the business problems of government.

And he has a brilliant record of patriotic service in one of the most important of our wartime activities.

Washington University, St. Louis, owes its existence to the vision and efforts of Brookings.

The Institute of Economics, the Institute for Government Research and the Robert Brookings Graduate School of Economics and Government—known as the Brookings Institute—are the results of his handiwork.

The distinguished service medal awarded by his own country, membership in the Legion of Honor of France, and commander of the crown (Italian) are evidence of the great part he took in the World War.

ONCE a very wealthy man, today Brookings is only a man of moderate means. He retired from business at the age of 48 and at the zenith of his money-making opportunity.

His record is one of achievement in many different lines—business, general education, medical education, government service through official action and also through the assistance of scientific research and educational methods. All is the result of a definite plan, a philosophy of life determined on 23 years ago, and followed consistently to the present day.

The other day he left Washington for St. Louis and there received what he regards as the crowning honor of his career. The medical school of the university he saved conferred on him the honorary degree of M. D.

On a day's docket and not one of them is ready for trial; the result is, all those cases are carried over to be put on the docket again later.

A SAGA OF THE SEA. By Britten Austin. (Macmillan). $2.50. NCE more P. Britten Austin has demonstrated his well-known ability to create stories of remote times that have some of the "feel" of contemporary records. This ability is due only partially to the author's habit of attempting to present the life of bygone ages. He seems to "dwell into" the facts after he has found them, and it is the vivid dream that he sets forth. The authoritative data upon which the dream is based are not obtrusive.

In "A Saga of the Sea" Mr. Austin follows in 10 stories of 10 different times and countries the progressive romance of navigation through nearly 20 centuries. "Saga" begins with the roving days before the face of Argi Helen "launched a thousand ships" against Ilium. Odysseus is loved by a beautiful Phoenician slave girl, Mytilus, but there are no accurate results, as Odysseus has not yet found his Penelope.

The second tale deals with the voyages of the merchantmen Tyre beyond the Pillars of Melchior when Gadir (Cadiz) was the extreme outpost of civilization. Next follows the romance of Antony and Cleopatra, culminating in the battle of Actium. Now the saga turns to the North, and celebrates the ventures of the Vikings under the great Gunnarson on their raid into sunny lands. Adventures Venetian seamen in the halcyon days of the "Serene Republic" follow. The chapter the discovery of America is described as though through the eyes of Columbus. Next the great Dutch merchantmen east around the Cape of Good Hope. The battle of Trafalgar is fought. The clipper ship era comes a-boards, and with the first battle of the Ironclads the new time begins.

$200,000 Added to Fund Johnson and Rand Families for Surgical Wing.

Wrecking of the west wing Barnes Hospital has begun in preparation for a new surgical department. The $500,000 Johnson and Rand building.

As originally planned, a three-story addition was to be erected above the present three-story surgical wing. To this end the Johnson and Rand families, chairman of the board of International Shoe and Frank C. Rand, president of the same concern, gave $150 each.

Architects found, however, strengthening the present structure to bear the weight of more floors would run into an exorbitant expense. Mr. Rand and Mr. Johnson's family incomes are $100,000 each for a total of $200,000 to erect an entirely new building.

To this amount was added $500 by the General Education Board, which has provided a window research and teaching facilities of Washington University School of Medicine in its structure. The gifts of the Louisianans give the university the best facilities for teaching in this country and place it on a plane with European universities. They are in memory of Edwin Johnson Jr., who died in Japan, and the American Expeditionary Force, and Mr. Rand's brother, Edgar E. Rand.

The Johnson-Rand building have a 200-bed capacity in addition, and will virtually double the surgical facilities of the hospital.

NEW SPANISH CONSTITUTION IS SUBMITTED

National Assembly to Act in October on Document Re-establishing Elective Parliament.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, July 6.—Re-establishment of the elective Cortes, or Spanish Parliament, is provided for by the projected new Spanish constitution, submitted to the National Assembly for plenary action in October, the text of which has become known here.

The projected constitution would establish Spain as a constitutional monarchy with the elective power vested in the King, the Ministry to have arbitrary consultative power.

The legislative power would revert to the Cortes, a single body containing one member for every 100,000 of population, both men and women being eligible for membership and for enumeration for representation.

One half of the Cortes would be elected by Universal Suffrage, 30 members appointed by royal decree and the rest elected by special classifications or professions as laws later enacted might establish.

The King, under the new constitution, profiting by the advice of his Ministers, would initiate all laws except those referring to Government expenditures, which have previously received the approval of one-fifth of the deputies.

There is an express guarantee: "No one shall be molested in Spanish territories because of his religious opinions nor for the exercise of his own cult, unless it is harmful to Christian morals."

Public religious ceremonies and other religious manifestations are limited to the Roman Catholic faith.

Other provisions of the constitution are: The rights of free speech and publication by all Spanish subjects are guaranteed with certain exceptions. A guarantee is expressed that citizens and foreigners shall not be imprisoned except by due course of law and that their domiciles cannot be invaded except by competent judges.

Spanish citizenship rests in those persons born in Spain, in the sons of Spanish fathers even though born on foreign soil, and in those who acquire it by naturalization.

Naturalization is the gift of the State, but citizens or subjects of States in which Spanish is spoken are to have a privileged position in seeking naturalization.

Foreigners enjoy most of the rights of citizens, except the vote and other participation in the Government.

No restriction on Emigration. Persons arrested or detained by the authorities will have free correspondence with the outside world. The laws can only be retroactive when in favor of the defendant, unless he is a habitual delinquent.

There is no limitation upon the right of any Spaniard to emigrate to foreign countries. The penalty of confiscation of property cannot be applied by the courts.

To each citizen is guaranteed the right to choose his profession and to learn it as seems to him best. Every Spaniard within the forms prescribed by law has a right to found and maintain establishments of instruction.

Education becomes one of the most important and fundamental cares of the State.

The right to strike is recognized, but the Government reserves the right to intervene when the strike is of a large part of the population and public service is endangered.

Consent Considered Outgrowth of Seven Years' Program.

MADRID, Spain, July 6.—The projected new constitution for the Spanish monarchy contains 11 sections and 104 articles, detailing various concepts of the nation, State, religion, nationality, individual rights, the monarchy and succession to the throne.

Reserved opinion was that it represented the fructification of the seven years' program to establish the Spanish Government on a new basis begun by the present dictator, Gen. Primo de Rivera.

The Constitution of 1876, normally in force in Spain, has been in abeyance since appointment of De Rivera as head of a military dictatorship, charged with government of the State.

The Cortes, or Parliament, provided for in that constitution, was dissolved by King Alfonso Sept. 16, 1923. The National Assembly, an appointive consultative body, having no legislative powers, was convoked by royal decree of Sept. 12, 1927.

On Dec. 3, 1925, the military dictatorship was superseded by a civil government described by De Rivera as "the substitution for the military dictatorship of a civilian and economic dictatorship with a more suitable but not less vigorous organization." Legislation has been enacted by decree.

De Rivera formed the Union Patriótica as a political party to further his program. Its functioning to a certain extent being much like Fascism in Italy, with other parties largely suppressed.

The Dictator frequently has asserted he is tired and will retire from leadership of the country as soon as he has completed his program of giving Spain a new constitution.

At the same time, he has been seen in the company of a group of men, including a man in a military uniform, who are believed to be members of the Union Patriótica.

Spanish Flyers Hesitated to Send SOS Because They Didn't Think They Were in Real Danger

Finally Put Out Call, With Added Request for Gasoline so They Could Fly to Safety, but Got No Response.

This is the third chapter of the dramatic tale by Major Ramon Franco, commander of the Spanish government expedition which started from Spain for America aboard a Dornier-Wal flying boat, on June 21, only to meet with disaster near the Azores.

By MAJ. RAMON FRANCO.
(Copyright, 1929.)

MADRID, July 5.—As we were very near the Azores, we supposed we would be sought by searching parties around the islands, but the strong contrary north wind which prevailed when we were about 100 nautical miles from the islands made even this hope rather vague.

We had supper from the remnants of our afternoon meal, having still the untouched emergency supply we carried with us.

At dawn on the 23d, everything on board was just the same. We managed to arrange our radio receiver in the morning and in the afternoon we were able to get a message from our transmitter. We hoped that by transmitting during the night we would be able to enlarge our reach and summon aid.

We had a thermos bottle with cold coffee, and four tins of condensed milk, each tin containing about four liters. With this food we had our breakfast, which we heated over the spirit stove that we carried on board.

The wind diminished and the battering seas let up a bit.

Community Cigars.

Our tobacco supply was gone, but I remembered that in one of the pockets of my dungarees we had six 20-cent cigars from the Canary Islands, and these are very good indeed. My dungarees had been used as a pillow by Gallarza, therefore the cigars were all broken. Nevertheless, we smoked one a day, passing it around among the four of us, the only thing that was going to give us any comfort.

My dungarees had been used as a pillow by Gallarza, therefore the cigars were all broken. Nevertheless, we smoked one a day, passing it around among the four of us, the only thing that was going to give us any comfort.

The wind diminished and the battering seas let up a bit.

Spanish Flyers Hesitated to Send SOS Because They Didn't Think They Were in Real Danger

Finally Put Out Call, With Added Request for Gasoline so They Could Fly to Safety, but Got No Response.

This is the third chapter of the dramatic tale by Major Ramon Franco, commander of the Spanish government expedition which started from Spain for America aboard a Dornier-Wal flying boat, on June 21, only to meet with disaster near the Azores.

MADRID, July 5.—As we were very near the Azores, we supposed we would be sought by searching parties around the islands, but the strong contrary north wind which prevailed when we were about 100 nautical miles from the islands made even this hope rather vague.

We had supper from the remnants of our afternoon meal, having still the untouched emergency supply we carried with us.

At dawn on the 23d, everything on board was just the same. We managed to arrange our radio receiver in the morning and in the afternoon we were able to get a message from our transmitter. We hoped that by transmitting during the night we would be able to enlarge our reach and summon aid.

We had a thermos bottle with cold coffee, and four tins of condensed milk, each tin containing about four liters. With this food we had our breakfast, which we heated over the spirit stove that we carried on board.

The wind diminished and the battering seas let up a bit.

THE BOND MARKET

By The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 6.—Total transactions in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today amounted to $2,261,000; previous day's sales, $1,411,000; week ago, $9,175,000; year ago, $4,261,000. Total transactions from Jan. 1 to date were $1,382,528,000, compared with $1,212,876,000 a year ago and $1,809,795,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty Bonds are in dollars and thirty-cent fractions; that is for instance a sale price of 92-24 means $92 and three-fourths of a dollar and not $92.24.

The following is a complete list of transactions giving sales, highest and closing prices. In sales 600 omitted:

CORPORATION BONDS.

CARDS OUTHIT PHILLIES BUT LOSE, 10 TO 6

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—The Cardinals lost the first game of the doubleheader to the Phillies this afternoon, 10 to 6. It was the eleventh straight defeat for the Red Birds.

The Cardinals got 15 hits to the Phillies' 13 and played errorless ball, but the Phillies bunched their safeties.

"Sunny Jim" Bottomley hit his 17th and 18th homers in the contest. Both times there was one man on the sacks. Klein, Phillie outfielder, drove off his 21st homer of the season, and Third Baseman Whitney also got one. There were no one on the bags when they got their circuit smashes.

"Wee Willie" Sherdel started for the Cardinals and was yanked in the seventh inning and was replaced by Sylvester Johnson.

Benge was the Phillies' starting pitcher and lasted until the eighth, when he was succeeded by Elliott. (Play-by-play account and box score on Page 12, column 2.)

fev singled to center. Holm popped to Whitney. Wilson forced Hays, Thompson to Thewenow. Gelbert forced Wilson, Thompson to Thewenow.

PHILLIES—High threw out Whitney. Thompson went out the same way. Thewenow flied to Douthett.

EIGHTH—CARDINALS—Frankhouse flied to Southern. Douthett walked, Delker bounced a single over Thewenow's head. Douthett stopped at second. High singled to right, scoring Douthett and sending Delker to third. Bottomley walked, filling the bases. High was hit by a pitched ball, forcing Frankhouse over the plate. Bottomley hit over the right field wall for his nineteenth home run of the season and his third of the afternoon, scoring behind Douthett. Delker and High. Hafey doubled, hitting the Cardinals twentieth hit. Holm beat out a hit to Whitney. Hafey going to third. Whitney threw out Wilson, Hafey scoring. Thewenow threw out Gelbert.

TEN RUNS—Thompson singled to left. Thewenow hit into a double play, High to Selph to Bottomley. Gelbert threw out Davis.

FOURTH—CARDINALS—Wilson flied to Southern. Gelbert doubled to center. Thewenow threw to Frankhouse. Gelbert moving to third. Douthett singled to left, scoring Gelbert. Musketeer, Uncle Al, Realty and Barrone Win at Fairmount

By Melvin D. Fulcher
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

FAIRMOUNT RACE TRACK, July 6.

Cessation of the rain which fell during the forenoon brought a big crowd to Fairmount to witness the get-away program of eight races this afternoon. Although the weather still remained threatening, there were close to 4000 present for the first race.

The track was the proverbial sea of mud following the drenching rain and mud runners received heavy play in the mutual betting.

Musketeer at Home in Mud. Over a sloppy track, which was to his liking, Musketeer got up in the closing strides to win the first race over Sagnio and Mazzie.

The race, which was at six furlongs, resulted in Marjorie Seth and Matthew being the post time favorites at 8 to 5 each, but neither placed. Mazzie was the pace setter until the stretch, where she tired.

Musketeer, outpaced in the early running, was on the outside but came on close to the inner rail in the stretch and was lucky to get through at the eighth pole, which enabled him to wear the leaders down and win going away.

Sagnio followed the leader until the stretch, where she retired and Matthew was never an actual contender.

The winner paid well, $18.54 being the straight price.

Uncle Al Easily. A natural held sway in the second race when Uncle Al, a mudder of parts, and with an excellent race to his credit when he ran head and head with Nani Hawaii for a mile, scored in decidedly easy fashion. Backed down from 5 to 1 to 5 to 2 at post time, he won by a wide margin.

In the third race, the favorite, Joe Freyer owned gelding, by Torch Bearer, went into the lead and was rated out in front for the entire mile and 70 yards, winning the race by a wide margin.

ALLISON AND VAN RYN WIN DOUBLES TITLE

By the Associated Press.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 6.—

America's dashing young doubles team consisting of John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison won the British tennis championship in men's doubles today by defeating Britain's best pair, J. C. Gregory and L. G. Collins, in the final.

Allison and Van Ryn won out in a terrific five-set struggle by scores of 6-4, 5-7, 6-2, 10-12, 6-4.

The victory for the American combination followed a straight set conquest for Henri Cochet, the French ace, over his countryman, Jean Borotra, in the men's singles final. The scores were: 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

Miss Helen Wills and Frank Hunter won the mixed doubles final from I. G. Collins and Miss Joan Fry of England, 6-1, 6-4, giving the United States three of the five championships.

Only two championships escaped the invading American forces, that in men's singles, which went to France, and women's doubles, won by England. With the decisive victory of Miss Wills and Hunter the United States forces found themselves in possession of the titles in women's singles and mixed doubles, in both of which Queen Helen Cochet's victory tied him with Borotra and Rene Lacoste, his fellow "Musketeers" with two Wimbledon crowns apiece since 1924 and gives France a clean sweep of this classic event for the six years.

By their victory which was preceded by smashing triumphs over the best doubles pairs in the world including the defending champions, Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, of France, and Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, their fellow-Americans who won this title in 1927, the young Americans can lay claim to virtual world supremacy.

Although comparatively new to big time international play, these two impetuous youngsters, Allison, the Texan, and Van Ryn, the former Princeton captain, out at a swash at Wimbledon that stamped them as one of the best doubles combinations put together in recent years and a likely bet for Uncle

BABE RUTH DRIVES WINNING RUN WITH SINGLE IN 7TH

By James M. Gould
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, July 6.—The Browns lost a ball game and some ground in the league standing when they went down to defeat before the Yankees in the opening game of their series here this afternoon.

The score was 3 to 1. Manager Howley chose his prize right-hander, Sam Gray, to pitch against the Manhattan sluggers while Pilot Huggins picked Herb Pennock.

The Yanks have won six of the seven inter-club games this season but the Browns have won nine of their last 10 games. Schang was out of action with a boil.

The new homer-preventive screen in right was up. The attendance was estimated at 6000. McGowan, Campbell and Connelly were the umpires.

FIRST INNING—YANKEES—Combs grounded to Melillo. Robertson singled over second. Gehrig was safe on a fumble by O'Rourke. Robertson reaching second. On a wild pitch Robertson went to third and Gehrig to second. Ruth was called out on strikes. O'Rourke threw out Lazzeri.

BROWNS—Blue flied to Combs. Badgro struck out. Manush singled to right. Schulte sent a long fly to Ruth.

SECOND—YANKEES—Kress threw out Meusel. Dickey grounded to Blue. Durocher struck out. BROWNS—Kress flied to Combs. O'Rourke struck out. Combs made a fine running catch of Melillo's line drive to right center.

THIRD—YANKEES—Pennock bounced to Blue. Combs singled to center. Robertson fouled to Ferrell. Gehrig lined to Blue.

BROWNS—Ferrell singled to center. Gray bunted into a double play. Robertson to Durocher to Gehrig. Blue tapped to Pennock.

FOURTH—YANKEES—Melillo took Ruth's slow bouncer and threw him out. Lazzeri fouled to Ferrell. Meusel doubled to right center. Meusel went to third on a second wild pitch by Gray. Dickey flied to Manush.

BROWNS—Badgro popped to Dickey in front of the plate. Manush struck out. Schulte fouled to Dickey.

FIFTH—YANKEES—Durocher struck out for the second time. Pennock was called out on strikes. Combs drew Gray's first base on balls. Robertson fouled to O'Rourke.

BROWNS—Gray singled to center. O'Rourke popped to Durocher. Melillo singled to center and when Combs fumbled, Kress went to third. Ferrell bounced a singled over Robertson's head, scoring Kress. Melillo stopping at second. Gray hit into a double play, Durocher to Lazzeri to Gehrig. ONE RUN.

SIXTH—YANKEES—Melillo drove a great play, when he took Gehrig's high hopper and threw him out. Ruth walked. Lazzeri also walked. Meusel singled to left, scoring Ruth with the tying run. Lazzeri stopping at second.

BROWNS—Gray was hit by a pitched ball. McGowan ran for Schang. Blue hit into a double play, Durocher to Lazzeri to Gehrig.

NINTH—YANKEES—Coffman went in to pitch for the Browns. Gehrig grounded to Melillo. Ruth also grounded to Melillo. Lazzeri lined to Manush.

The Browns failed to score.

Cubs Purchase Catcher Taylor

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 6.—James Taylor, veteran catcher of the Boston Braves, was sold to the Chicago Cubs today at the waiver price of $1500. The sale was completed shortly before the Braves and Cubs took the field here and Taylor immediately transferred to a Chicago uniform.

Taylor joined the Boston club in 1925. He shared the catching with Al Spohrer last year, but caught 124 of the team's games.

DOHERTY SETS NEW A. U. RECORD IN WINNING DECATHLON HONORS

DETROIT STAR TOTALS 7784.68 POINTS BEATING HASKELL INDIAN

By the Associated Press.
DENVER, Colo., July 6.—The greatest all-around athlete in the United States by Amateur Athletic Union measurements, is Kenneth Doherty of the Cadillac Athletic Club, Detroit.

Doherty, a tall, slender looking fellow, whose slender physique belies the strength and endurance that is his, yesterday scored 7784.68 points in the decathlon of the annual A. U. track and field championships. It was the highest score ever made in the United States for the gruelling competition, lasting almost a full day. The highest number of points previously scored was 7744.43 by Earl Ekins of the University of Nebraska in 1927. Doherty's showing closely approached the world's record of 8053.290 made in 1923 by Paavo Yrjola of Finland.

Doherty, who won the A. U. decathlon title last year with 7690.52 points, beat out a fine field of competitors in the 10 events, the 100-meters run, broad jump, 150-foot shotput, 400-meters run, 110-meters hurdles, discus throw, pole vault, javelin throw, 1500-meters run and high jump.

Here is Doherty's record breaking performance that makes him the all-around champion athlete of the year.

100-meters run—11.1 seconds; broad jump—6.65 meters; shotput—11.87 meters; high jump—1.81 meters; 400-meters run—54 seconds; 110-meters hurdles—21.6 seconds; discus throw—58.23 meters; pole vault—3.53 meters; javelin throw—56.42 meters; and the 1500-meters run—5 minutes 48 seconds.

V. Kennedy of Warrensburg (Mo.) Teachers College, was second with 7262.003 points and William Charles, an Onondaga Indian of Haskell Institute, Lawrence, Kan., third with 7240.03. Charles, until the last events of the decathlon approached, appeared to be headed for a world's record, but he failed to stand the pace, due to a ankle injury.

Other contenders finished in this order: Wert Englemann, South Dakota State College, 7158.568; James Grant, Haskell Institute, 6989.545; Harry Fried, Illinois A. C., 6538.060; A. D. Brennan, Southern Pacific Club, Fort Collins, Colo., 6585.185; Leo D. Dodd, Haskell, 6362.26; Dan Beattie, Denver A. C., 6226.750; and John Anderson, Olympic A. C., 4536.462.

Relay Records Broken.
The 3-day stand of the "American Olympics" came to a close with three relay records being smashed. Two new marks were set to the Los Angeles Athletic Club, which took the relays championship with 16 points, and one to the New York A. C.

Mit Maurer, Charley Padlock, Maurice Guyer and Frank Wyckoff carried the L. A. A. C. colors to a world's record in the 440-yard event for a track with two turns, covering the quarter mile in 41.9 seconds, a half second faster than the old mark.

This same quartet clipped one full second from the A. U. record in the half mile by making the distance in one minute, 14.4 seconds. Jackson Scholz, Johnny Kerr, Howard Jones and Frank Cuhel, running for the New York A. C., set the new A. U. record for the mile at 3 minutes, 17 seconds, or six-tenths of a second faster than the old mark made in 1925 by an Illinois A. C. team composed of Stevenson, Taylor, Oestreich and Kennedy.

Relay Sets New Mark.
Herman Brix, University of Washington product, threw the 8-pound shot 67 feet 11 inches, a new world's record. Ralph Rose had held the record at 67 feet 7 inches, since 1907.

Claude Bracey, the "Texas Torpedo," who finished second to Eddie Tolon of Michigan in the senior 160-yard dash, won a special 300-yard dash yesterday against a picked field, but he failed to lower the world's record of 3 seconds by one-tenth of a second.

Immediately after the finish of the last event yesterday, the Denver University Stadium was hit by a drenching rain. An unusually strong wind prevailed during the three days of the meet.

In addition to the two world's records, eleven A. U. marks fell during the championships. Five records were beaten in the junior division—220-yard dash, pole vault, 120-yard high hurdles, the high jump and the javelin throw, and four in the senior championship—400-yard run, discus throw, javelin and pole vault.

PLAY IN MEN'S MUNY TOURNEY IS POSTPONED

Play in the Men's Municipal tennis tournament, scheduled to open today on the Memorial Courts at Forest Park, was postponed this morning because of wet courts. The entire program as scheduled for this afternoon, will be held tomorrow, beginning at 1 p. m., weather and court conditions permitting.

All first round singles matches and as many of the second round as possible will be disposed of tomorrow.

Seven of the Muny's first 10 ranking players are among the 75 singles and 24 doubles entries. Ted Drewes, the winner of this tournament since 1924, is seeded first, with Robert Norton, Sid Smith, Joyce Postings, William Bell, Joseph Petrik, Jack Plunkert, Leo Moul, Hap Schaberg, and Harold Wieser being seeded in order named.

As many of the first round doubles as possible also will be played. The doubles' seedings are in the following order: Ted Drewes and William Bascom, first; Schaberg and Norton, second; Sidney Smith and Portnoy, third; and Weiss and Steideman, fourth. Last year Drewes and Bascom won the local doubles championship, thus qualifying and entering the National Public Parks tournament at Cleveland. This year it will be held at Buffalo.

The first round singles pairings in the Municipal net tournament follow:

SCHMELING SAYS HE IS READY TO MEET DEMPSEY

By Davis J. Walsh
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 6.—"I hope Mr. Dempsey does not change his mind. I hear that he sometimes does."

Max Schmeling, the German heavyweight fighter, was very busy doing nothing; down here today and stopped right in the middle of everything to make this significant remark in connection with Jack Dempsey's published challenge to heavyweights in general and to himself in particular. In his precise but halting English, Schmeling thus declared himself to the effect that not only was he accepting Dempsey's challenge, but, in turn, was challenging Dempsey to accept his acceptance, as it were, or was or both. He seemed to fear that "Mr. Dempsey," as he called him, was talking just for the sake of giving his adenosils a good, fast workout.

In brief, the German says he hopes that Dempsey's threat to return to the ring turns out to be a definite promise. He apparently had been informed that John, holding him in rather light esteem, had wanted Schmeling for his very own, for he hastened to oblige today by waiving all rights in the matter of naming time, place and the number of rounds. I may be mistaken, but it seemed to me that the German wished to give the impression that he didn't care for "Mr. Dempsey" in a bad, unselfish way.

"I informed Mr. Dempsey once that I was ready to meet him anywhere and at any time," Schmeling explained. "That was my challenge, and it was an official one, for I made it in writing and signed my name to it. If it is he now who is challenging me, that is good, is it not so? For I can then should get together. I will make no difficulty about the time or the place or the conditions, just as I am prepared to meet Sharkey any place where our fight can be conducted. If the Boxing Commission in New York will not allow me to fight Dempsey, and Sharkey will fulfill a contract made for me by an unauthorized man, then I shall fight them anywhere that is acceptable to them."

"Mr. Dempsey should not be further to meet with challenges. I am happy to accept all of them. The 'unauthorized man' referred to is Arthur Buelow, his discarded manager, who signed Schmeling to the Fugazy banner when Dempsey was acting as matchmaker for that outfit. It is this circumstance that is serving to hurt the German from New York rings and, it seems, he resents Dempsey's part in the proceedings."

"He called me when I was home in Germany, saying that I had been signed to fight for him," Schmeling added. "In my reply, I told him that he should be the last man to ask any fighter to obey the contract of a manager with him he did not wish to be associated. This evidently struck home, as he wished it to do. In the same message, I told him I was ready to fight him anywhere and at any time and for any bond."

A much better job of beating both than Godfrey did.

That seems to classify George correctly, as just outside of the championship class.

One of two parks are employing amplifiers, now. Why not give the public a break and make it unanimous throughout both major league circuits?

Stymied.
WHILE conversation is all centered about Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey as outstanding figures in the heavyweight championship picture, Mr. James Dougherty shines his castor into the taikie.

James has about 250 pounds of dark meat which he considers suitable for the cauliflower leadership of the world, in the person of George Godfrey. Jawge has ruined more "hopes" than probably any other fighter in ring including Paulino and Risko. He is a tremendous fellow, ungainly but powerful. Mr. Dougherty complains bitterly that, because of the Ethiopian lineage to Jawge's complexion, there exists a newspaper stigma against his protegee's title claims.

"Why, George could slap over the entire outfit of white hopes in one evening," moaned the veteran. "These German Monarchs and Lithuanian Terrors, we know what they are. Godfrey made things easy for Schmeling to get a reputation by softening both Risko and Paulino so that he could 'take' them."

"If they gave George a fair break he would be in there winning that title in a hurry."

Mayhap the wall is deservat. At this writing it seems that Godfrey is really tough picking for any of the fighters. It also seems very doubtful if any promoter will allow Jawge the chance he craves.

It's an old story, because Jack Johnson quered the championship game for the black race, for all time.

HELEN AMERICAN STAR LOSES ONLY 16 GAMES TO WIN SINGLES CROWN

By the Associated Press.
WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 6.—France has a firm grip on the masculine honors of world tennis, no nation has nominated a woman to threaten Helen Wills' monopoly on feminine laurels.

Her feat in trouncing Helen Cols, another Californian, 6-1, 6-0 on Wimbledon's famous center court yesterday gave Miss Wills her third British championship in many years and her second row without the loss of a set.

As a matter of fact, the earnest searcher after the facts must go back to 1927 before discovering an opponent able to wrest a set from the Berkeley girl. In that year Miss G. L. Story of England beat the British championships, 6-3, 6-3, but Miss Wills swept through the rest of the field to win the title for the first time. Since that day, June 23, 1927, when Miss Wills gave her such a taste, no other woman has won the Wimbledon title.

Her victory in the current championships was more important than either of her other two, for she lost one set and 43 games in taking the title. In 1928, she dropped 18 games but no set, and this year, she lost no sets and only 16 games.

Miss Wills' easy triumph over Helen Cols indicated among other things that the Berkeley girl was having little trouble defending her American title this fall. She won the American title and French title in 1928 and already has defeated in the French and British events of 1929. There seems to be no reasonable ground for expecting that she will not win through in 1929 and thus the championships of her own land.

BOSTON EIGHT WINS FINAL IN HENLEY RACES

By the Associated Press.

HENLEY, England, July 6.—The Browne and Nichols School crew from Cambridge, Mass., won the famous Thames Cup this afternoon by capturing the first race of the gruelling competition.

The Boston schoolboys defeated the Thames Club, holders of the title, in the final.

L. Gunther of Holland was the famous Diamond Sculls dethroning Joe Wright Jr. of Canada in the final. Gunther beat Wright by three feet in a hair-raising finish in 8 minutes 42 seconds.

A bad spell of steering on the part of Wright may have cost him the race this afternoon. Gunther took an early lead of a quarter of a length in the first 200 yards. Wright, not inclined to hurry, swung alone steadily without gaining and at the half-mile point half a length separated the Dutch and Canadian crews. This margin Gunther increased to a length and a half at the mile.

The husky prep school boys succeeded where the Columbia University lightweight eight failed and gave America its first big Henley rowing glory since Walter Hovey won the Diamond Sculls in 1922.

After trimming the Trinity College eight of Cambridge, conqueror of Columbia yesterday, in this morning's race, the Browne and Nichols youngsters went out this afternoon and beat the Thames Rowing Club in the final by one and one-quarter lengths. The time was 7 minutes 28 seconds for the mile and 30 seconds for the half-mile.

The Thames Cup, which the young Americans now can take back home, is second only in importance in English rowing to the Henley regatta, the Americans and Holland divided premier honors in the regatta, the Americans and Holland each taking one of the eight-oared championships and a bare three feet for the coveted diamond sculls.

The prep school boys, sole American survivors in the competition, avenged the defeat of Columbia's 189-pound crew yesterday at the hands of Trinity College of Cambridge, by leading the Trinity crew home in seven minutes and twenty seconds by the slim margin of one-third of a length in the semi-final.

There was a remarkable demonstration at the post, for the American schoolboys, far from being distressed, gave their school war whoop in honor of Trinity before rowing off to the landing stage.

The Trinity crew showed some distress and did not leave the post for a minute or two.

HARTNETT IS READY TO PLAY, MCCARTHY SAYS

BOSTON, Mass., July 6.—Gabby Hartnett, one of the best catchers in baseball, is ready to play according to Joe McCarthy, manager of the Chicago Cubs, who arrived here this morning from Buffalo, where he spent Friday with his family.

Hartnett has been unable to play all year owing to an ailing shoulder. The Cubs open a series with the Braves here today.

$512 TAKEN IN HOLDUP OF LOAN FIRM OFFICE

Manager of Concern at Sarah and Olive Robbed by Two Negroes.

F. A. Speake, manager of the Public Loan Corporation, 406 Olive street, near the Sarah-Olive transfer corner, was held up by two armed Negroes at 8:15 a. m. today and robbed of $512, while many persons passed the first-floor office, of which they had a full view through plate glass windows.

Speake was ordered into a back office and warned to remain there five minutes after the robbers left. Patrolman Paschedeg, walking a few doors from the loan company, was informed of the robbery after his attention had been attracted to the Negroes leaving the office. He pursued them as they turned south into Sarah street and made an unsuccessful search for them.

The robbers entered shortly after Speake had opened the office. He was alone in the building and was counting the money for the cash drawer.

Beaten Unconscious in Struggle With Two Robbers.

Anthony Nags, 23 years old, 2810 Charlton street, was struck on the neck and jaw and knocked unconscious when he fought two men who held him up in an alley near his home at 1:10 a. m. today. He was found by neighbors and revived. He reported the robbers took $40 from his pockets.

Doris McGarvie, 15, 4236 Ashland avenue, struggled and screamed when a Negro attempted to drag her into an alley near her home at 11 o'clock last night. The Negro stole her purse, containing 40 cents and a watch, and escaped.

Mrs. Grace Riley, 4616 Delmar boulevard, was robbed of a handbag containing $10, a watch, two rings and a check by a Negro at Vandeventer and Cook avenues. James Orr, 29-year-old Negro elevator operator, arrested for investigation last night, was identified, police reported, as the robber who obtained $35 at a Kroger store at 2302 Wash. street June 1 and $50 at the same store June 25. Orr denied the charge.

Boys Admit Dozen Auto Thefts When Motorist Catches One.

An automobile owner saw a boy drive off in his automobile yesterday afternoon, pursued him in another machine, captured him after a foot race, and took him to the Deer Street Police Station where he confessed and implicated two other boys in a series of more than a dozen auto thefts.

The boy, who said he was Ralph Price, 16 years old, 4212 Olive street, entered the automobile of Richard Pennie, 1131A Walton avenue, as it was parked at 4639 Page boulevard. Pennie asked a passing motorist to follow the machine, and the boy, observing that he was pursued, took to his heels, but was caught after a short chase.

He implicated Marion Orskie, 19, 4615 Olive street, and Ralph Brewington, 14, 4130 Delmar, who were arrested. They admitted numerous automobile thefts for joy rides and Orskie was seated in a stolen automobile when arrested at Vandeventer and Olive, police said.

POLICEMAN, FIREMAN INJURED IN $10,000 OLIVE ST. BLAZE

Traffic Tied Up for an Hour by Fire in Brick Building at 5:40 P. M.

A policeman and a fireman were slightly injured, traffic was tied up for an hour and damage estimated at $10,000 was caused by a fire of undetermined origin which broke out at 5:40 p. m. yesterday in a two-story brick building at 2339 Olive street.

Patrolman Walter Wessler of the Laclede Avenue District suffered an injury to his right knee when a hose broke as he was stepping over it, the end striking him. He was treated at City Hospital, where Herman Wolfart, pipeman of Engine Company No. 25 also was taken after being cut by glass broken from the windows.

The building was damaged $5000 and about the same loss was shared by the following tenants: Stanley Hughes, cigar store; Sam George, confectionery; A. Brimmer, men's furnishings; Charles Yaeckle, barber shop; David Rubin, hat store; Philip Burzon, tailor.

POLICEMAN PLACES BET, CALLS GAMBLING SQUAD

Tabs Recording Racing Wagers
Obtained in Arrest at Shoe
Shining Parlor.

Alex Dobbin, 26 years old, 742 Ponce avenue, whose business headquarters are at a shoe shining parlor at 2003 North Grand boulevard, made the mistake of accepting a $2 bet from a young man, dressed in civilian clothes, who was getting a shoe shine in the shop yesterday afternoon. As soon as the visitor got a tab from Dobbin, showing the former had bet $1 to win and $1 to show on "Sturdy Stella," a horse running in the fourth race at Fairmount yesterday, the visitor called in members of the gambling squad waiting outside, and Dobbin was charged with operating a handbook. The man who made the bet was Probationary Patrolman Ralph Von Nida.

If the gambling squad had waited till the end of the race, Patrolman Von Nida would have gotten back $2.32, because Sturdy Stella ran second. Thirty-one other tabs were found at the place.

DEPOSITIONS IN SUIT OVER DOG TRACK STOCK

Kennel Club Officer Says M. J.
Hyland Intended to Give Holdings to Wife.

Martin J. Hyland, late huckster, who made a fortune out of dog racing, told him in the fall of 1926 that he was turning over all his stock in several kennel clubs to his wife, Dorothy, Frank R. Anderson, secretary and treasurer of the Madison Kennel Club, testified in a deposition yesterday.

Anderson's testimony was given in the offices of Joseph McAtee, Clayton attorney, who is representing John J. Hyland, a brother, and Mrs. Catherine C. McClurkin and Mrs. Martin, sisters, in their attempt to show in Probate Court that Hyland's widow made omissions in listing the value of the estate in the inventory as only $64,527.99 and that Hyland did not give her his kennel club stock.

Mrs. Hyland contends that her husband gave her his stock in eight dog-racing tracks as soon as he acquired it, while the brother and two sisters hold that, being an officer in each kennel club, Hyland had to continue in possession of his stock.

Daniel O'Neill, manager of the Madison Kennel Club and who said he owned a florist's shop in the Jefferson Hotel, gave a deposition in which he said he owned one-eighth of the stock of the Madison Kennel Club, but declined to tell how much he paid for it or what is its present value.

Neither O'Neill nor Anderson gave any figures, although repeatedly questioned, either as to the amount taken in weekly by the Madison Kennel Club or the number of persons nightly attending the races.

O'Neill said that, although he was manager, he had not received pay or dividends this year and would not receive pay or dividends until the present race meeting was over. He said that Carl Mink, a bookkeeper, directed the financial affairs of the club and made the daily deposits. He said he did not know whether Mrs. Hyland had received as much as $20,000 weekly for her share of the profits from kennel clubs in various parts of the country in which her husband was interested.

Both O'Neill and Anderson, in response to questions, said the money from the kennel clubs came from "concessions" and from the pari-mutuel certificate system. Both men denied there was betting, saying the club "sold pari-mutuel certificates." Both said they could not tell whether more money came from the sale of certificates than from concessions. T. E. Keane, 4140 Washington boulevard, a construction engineer who built several tracks, said the Madison Kennel club track had cost $70,000 and the Wellston track considerably more. The tracks involved are at Madison and Cicero, Ill.; Erlanger, Ky.; Miami Fla.; Milwaukee, Wis.; and Butte, Mont. The Wellston Club, now closed, also was a Hyland property. All but the Madison club and that at Cicero are closed.

KANSAS CITY POLICE FREE MAN HELD AFTER DOUBLE KILLING

Neill Humphrey Released After Coroner's Jury Finds Arthur Hartman, St. Louisan, Was Slain by Another.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 6.—Neill Humphrey, reputed gangster, held by authorities after a revolver fight in which two men were killed in front of a hotel here several weeks ago, was released by the police and John V. Hill, assistant prosecutor. A Coroner's jury returned a verdict which stated that Arthur Hartman of St. Louis was killed by Ben Barbeti, alleged Chicago gunman, and that Barbeti was slain by "a person or persons unknown to the jury."

Humphrey was wounded in the fight. He said he would return to his home at Memphis, Tenn.

Hilsenfiest Picnic

The yearly Hilsenfiest picnic will be held tomorrow at Gerhart's Grove, two miles west of Baden on Hall's Ferry road. It is in commemoration of the fight in Hilsenfiest Mountain where St. Louis troops first went into action in the World War. The picnic is attended by members of L company of the 15th Infantry and their friends.

My Life

by
LEON TROTZKY

Leon Trotzky . . . the dynamic leader of the army that overthrew the Czar of all the Russias . . . the man whose adventurous career led him from exile in Siberia to a position of high power in the Soviet Republic and back into exile again . . . has written the story of his colorful life.

His autobiography, which began last Sunday, will continue tomorrow and every Sunday, exclusively in St. Louis in the Post-Dispatch Editorial Section.

Trotsky's story is more than the life story of an adventurous revolutionist. It is a document of definite historical value . . . a graphic, first-hand picture of the stirring events in Russia during and after the collapse of the Empire . . . told by one of the mightiest figures of the Revolution.

Helping Ella Cinders Decide

HICKVILLE, Mo.

Dear Ella:

Every night when we get the Post the first thing I do is to see if you have given Jim your answer "Yes."

The first thing I think you should do is to get rid of those awful freckles and then get a pretty permanent Ella, it would be wonderful if you would have a

Sunday Post funny paper filled with your wedding. And go west and live with "Your Jim." You know he loves you. Just think of "going west, going west!" to live on a ranch.

But Ella just picture yourself in some sheep skin riding pants and a nice big hat. Ella you don't know what you will miss.

WINNIE WINKLE.

PORTAGE DES SIOUX, Mo.

Dear Ella:

Get a move on you and do whatever you are going to do.

We think you ought to get married, because later on maybe no one will care for you.

Almost everyone advises you to get married, so why don't you?

CLEO AND DOROTHY.

FLORA, Ill.

Dear Ella: Please marry Jim

Blunt. How could you disappoint him, when he came to your rescue

the night you were about to be kidnaped. If you keep your career,

Nep will spoil it all. Besides, if you marry Jim you will be pleasing millions, where if you keep your career you will please just a few. Make Jim happy by going west on the ranch with him. Please stay in the paper when you are married. Please part your hair on the side and have a permanent wave. Also take off some of your freckles, as I do not like your looks

now. M. E. C.

MOUNTAIN GROVE, Mo.

Dearest Ella:

This is the greatest opportunity

I have had in years for giving advice, as I have always loved to express my opinion on marriage.

If you truly love Jim Blunt, then why not marry him, although I do not think he is very handsome. He has neither pretty eyes or flat feet, and those are two things I possess.

I sincerely believe Jim has not any love affairs before or he would take a second look at those freckles, but I advise Jim to have plenty of lemons, should he ever marry you, so you can bleach your countenance. Should your freckles disappear in the next month I will conspire you if Jim Blunt casts you aside. VAN DENNIS.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Dearest Ella:

Don't marry Jim Blunt. I like him, and all that, but your career is getting too hot to be cast aside for marriage. And, listen, if you honest and truly love Jim, you would marry him regardless of the career. You wouldn't have to have other people advise you. So stay single. Anyways, I don't think

Jim is good looking. I can't

get the idea that he is. What you want, Ella, is some one like Buddy

Boys or Nick Stuart. Would they fall for you? A girl with a personality like you got, oh, boy, and how. Now Ella will you do me a

BRITONS TO GIVE THANKS TODAY FOR
KING'S RECOVERY

His Subjects Will Unite in Prayer and Song in Churches Throughout the Empire.

OFFICIAL SERVICE
AT WESTMINSTER

Ruler and Other Members of the Royal Family Will Attend — Jews Join in Observance.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, July 6.—The people of Great Britain will unite to-morrow in solemn thanksgiving to God for the recovery of King George from his recent severe illness.

The sovereign himself, now restored to health and rejoicing in the felicitations given him today on the thirty-sixth anniversary of his marriage to Queen Mary, will attend the official service in Westminster Abbey. There among historic memorials, the spiritual and temporal chiefs of the nation will lead all loyal subjects in a service of praise.

While the King and Queen, accompanied by members of the royal family, engage in this public acknowledgment of a beneficent Providence, similar services of prayer and song will be held in the churches throughout the United Kingdom.

The keynote of the service will come in an invitation to prayer and thanksgiving taken from the Order of Service used in giving praise for the recovery of King George III in 1789. It will be intoned by the Dean of the Abbey early in the impressive program. In these words:

"God save the King. God save this realm. God give us grateful hearts."

To Sing "Te Deum."
A collect of thanksgiving that will be used here has been adapted from a prayer composed for thanksgiving at the recovery of Edward VII when the latter was Prince of Wales. Thanks will be given also for Queen Mary, constant attendant and comforter at the King's bedside, and for the doctors and nurses who ministered tirelessly to the royal patient through several trying months.

The service will conclude on the inspiring notes of "Te Deum Laudamus," which have rung out in the presence of crowned heads in famous cathedrals since the earliest centuries of Christendom.

"We praise Thee, O God; we acknowledge Thee to be the Lord, who are the opening words of that historic hymn. Later it declaimed: "Thou Art the King of Glory, O Christ; Thou art the everlasting Son of the Father," and it closed with a prayer, "O Lord, in Thee have I trusted, let me never be confounded."

"As the royal party passes from the abbey, the Westminster choir will sing Blake's hymn which begins, "And did those feet in ancient time," Sir Hubert Parry's tune, "Jerusalem," will be used in the setting.

At the procession to the Abbey.
At the start in the service stately procession into the great portals and under the lofty arches of the Abbey will be formed.
It will be made up of an imposing list of personages, the children of the King and Queen, including the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Duchess of York, Prince George,
Princess Mary, the latter's husband, Viscount Lascelles, and the children of the King, Princess Louise and Victoria Alexandra Cecilie.

Will precede the King and Queen
In a group of distinguished churchmen there will be the Most Reverend Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury, and Dr. Fox
Norley, dean of the Abbey.

These two will conduct the service.
Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister, and several members of his Cabinet also will be there. Close to the person of the King will be the Marquis of Salisbury as Lord
High Steward, and Lord Mair Ma-
Kenzie, High Bailiff.

Jews Also Hold Services.
Gratitude for the King's restored health was expressed today, the Jewish Sabbath. In all synagogues in the British Empire. A special memorial of thanks was compiled by Dr. J. H. Herts, chief rabbi and was used immediately before the usual petitions on behalf of the royal family. The observance today recalled that nearly 100 years ago prayers for the recovery of George IV were offered in all synagogues, and that earlier at
